

The New Race Car

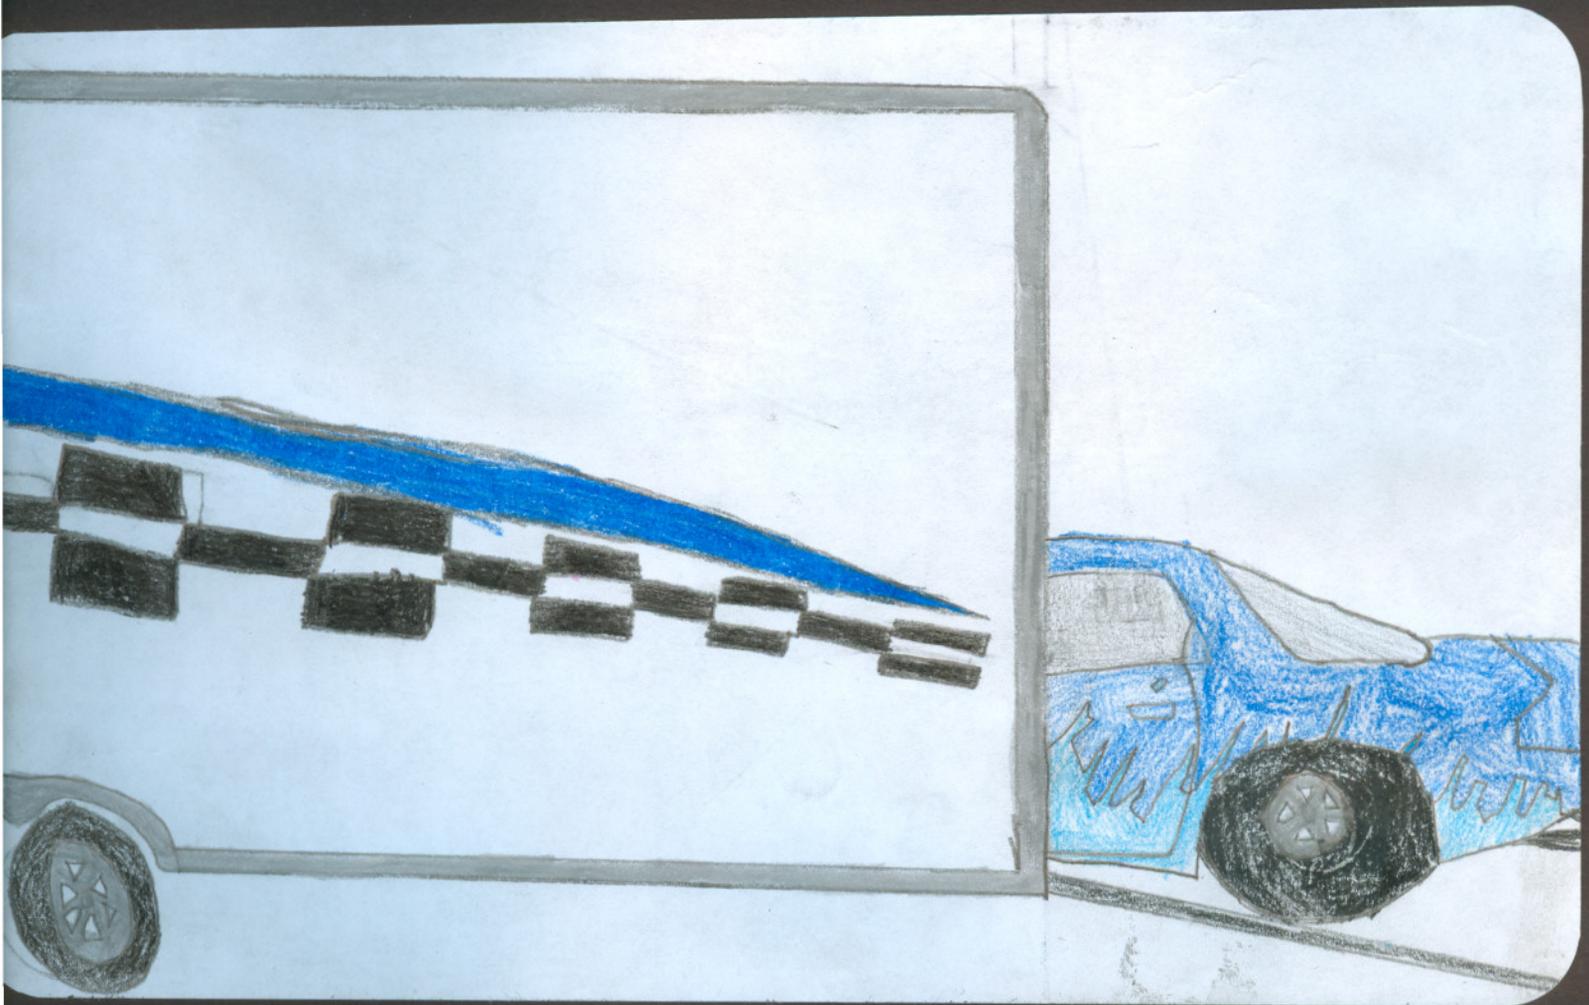

There was a guy named Nick. His son's name was Preston. Preston's dad decided to sell his race car and buy a new one. So Nick started shopping on the internet for a new race car.

Preston, his dad, his dad friend Schmitty and his mom drove 620 miles, to Addison,
Illinois to look at a new race car.

When they got to Addison they looked over the race car. Everyone liked the car so they bought it. When the purchase was done, they winched the new race car into the trailer and headed for home.

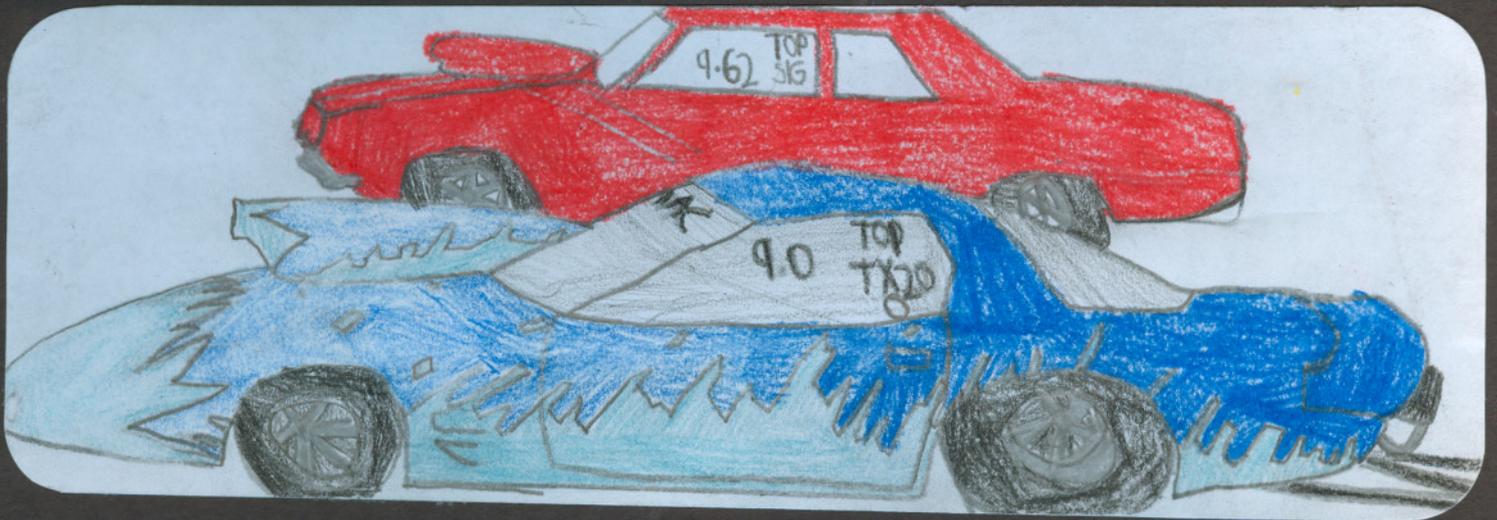

As soon as they got home, they unloaded the race car into the shop. The next day they started working on the tin in the car and getting it ready for the race track.

As soon as the race car was ready for the race track, they winch it back into the trailer and strap it down. Then they made sure they had everything and headed to Thunder Valley Dragways.

When they got to the race track Nick tested and tuned the car. The first race that Nick entered he got second place. The very next day he raced, Nick got first place.

They are all happy with the new race car.
