

The Mystery OF the Caring Capes

By

My name is Mouse. Private Detective Mouse.
But I'm not a regular Detective and neither is my Crew.

Today, I'm going to tell you a story about my dearest friend, Dr. Opossum, and the important lesson he taught me.

There was a big hulabaloo going on in the town square. I'd been getting so many phone calls, I decided to investigate.

There were 2 calls from Squeaking Avenue. Here is what they told me:

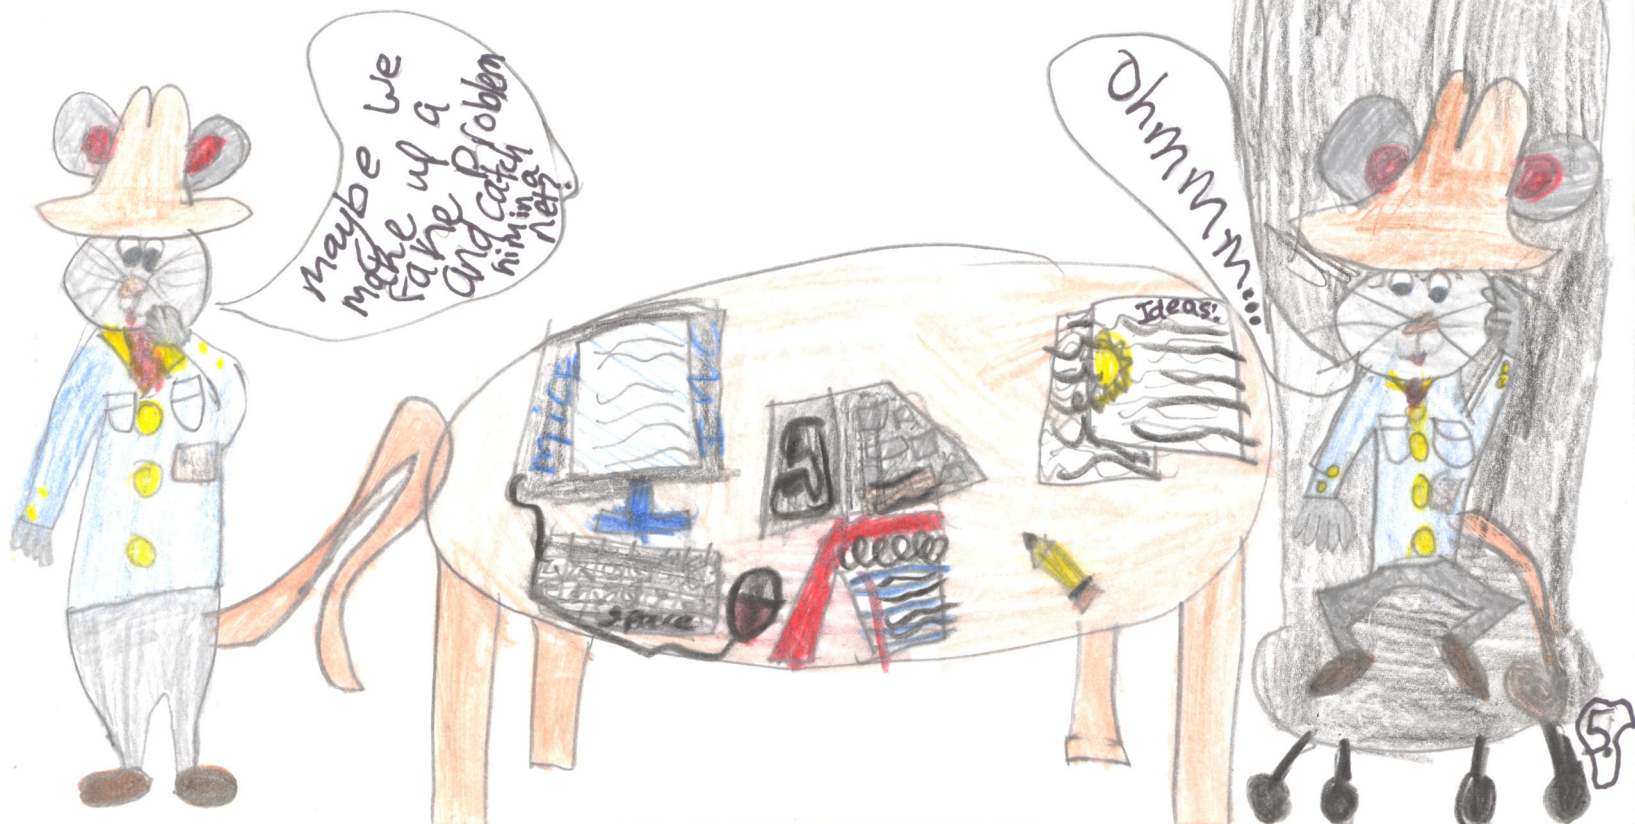

"Oh, Private Mouse! I didn't have enough food to last my family through the winter and the next morning I had enough food to last me 2 years!" exclaimed Mr. Guinea Pig.

"I'm growing older, and I'm losing my sight. I didn't have enough money for glasses but the next morning I had a pair of glasses on my side table! A miracle occurred that day!" cried Mr. Elderly Turtle with happiness.

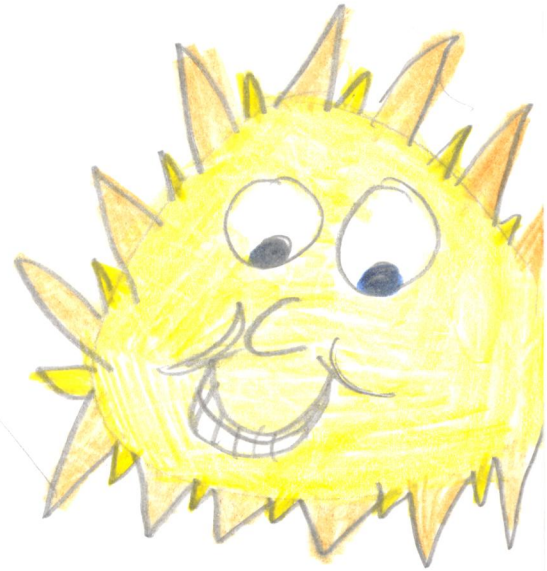

I got alot of other similar calls, so me and my crew came up with a plan to Find this caring caper.

Word on the street was that Mr. Hamster's car broke down. We decided to use that as our bait.

As soon as this Mysterious helper heard about this problem, he set out to make things right.

we silently waited behind the hedge at Hamster's house. Then, everyone saw the Mystery Man.

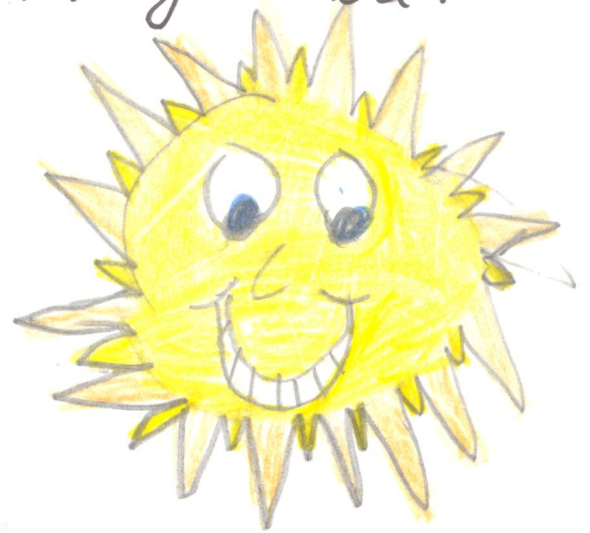

Gasp!

The mice cried out, 'It's Dr. Opossum!'
A loud gasp came from the crew.

Gasp!

The caper took off his glasses. "Yes, it is I,"
"It was you all along?" I gasped. He nodded. "I felt I should help people with their problems," he explained. "My mom always said you should help others."

"Let's celebrate!" I cried. The Mouse Band
Fired up, and the party began!

Everyone cheered for the caring hero!!

An award was given out to Dr. Opposum. It was such a joyous time.

That is my best memory.

We all learned an important lesson:
Do the right thing, even when nobody is looking!
